A mouse family has moved to a new town. The mice are still getting used to a new home, but they already invited all the neighbors to a housewarming party. What should they eat? Luckily, there is a pizzeria right above the mouse house, where tasty morsels fall off the tables every now and then. But be careful - a pet raccoon zipping around the pizzeria tends to drag all the food it can get its paws on into its pantry. So, keep your eyes open: explore the mouse house and stock enough treats so that no one leaves the mousewarming party hungry!
